

Vagelis Papakonstantinou is a Professor on Personal Data Protection Law at the Faculty of Law & Criminology of the Free University of Brussels (VUB, Vrije Universiteit Brussel), focusing also on Cybersecurity, Intellectual Property, and the broader topic of technology regulation. He works through the Cyber and Data Security Lab \(CDSL\), where he is its scientific coordinator, as well as through VUB's Research Group on Law Science Technology & Society \(LSTS\) and the Brussels Privacy Hub.

In addition, through MPlegal, a niche technology law firm, he practices business law with a particular emphasis on startups and mid-size companies on all of the above fields of law. Whenever asked, he also teaches “Entrepreneurship” at the MBA Programme of the University of the Aegean.

Since 2016 he has been a member (alternate) of the Hellenic Data Protection Authority; In the past, he has been a member of the Board of Directors of the Hellenic Copyright Organisation (for two terms).

His personal website may be found at <https://vpapakonstantinou.com>